

Envoy Protect

Keep employees healthy and safe at work

With Envoy Protect, you control who, and how many people can enter your workplace, so employees stay safe, healthy, and productive.

Take control of who comes on-site

Create a health questionnaire that employees complete before they head to the office. Connect your access control system to ensure only employees who certify they're healthy can enter the building.

Prevent overcrowding

You determine how many people can safely be on-site at once. Envoy records how many people are expected or on-site that day, and makes sure your workplace stays under capacity unless you say otherwise.

React quickly based on real-time data

Know immediately if an employee fails your health screening so you can reach out. Envoy keeps a record of everyone in your office, so you know exactly who to notify if someone becomes sick.

How you and your team use Protect

Step 1: Employees certify that they're healthy from home

Employees complete your health questionnaire before they come to work and must meet your criteria to reserve a spot in the office.

Step 2: When they arrive, employees sign in to access the building

Employees sign in from their phones to minimize the spread of germs. Connect Envoy to your access control system to instantly grant them access to your building.

Step 3: Envoy keeps count of who's on-site

See how many people are in the workplace and set your max capacity. If you hit capacity, no one can register without your approval.

Step 4: Notify your team if a situation arises

You have a record of who's been in your space so, if someone gets sick, you can trace their contacts and quickly notify them.

The tools you need to keep your workplace safe

Custom health questionnaire

Create questions that collect the info you need to stay in compliance with local regulations.

Employee screening

Set criteria employees must meet to come on-site and notify them instantly if they're approved or denied.

Touchless sign-in

Have employees sign in with Envoy Mobile on their phone, so there's no need to touch shared surfaces.

Employee log

See everyone who is registered to come in tomorrow and who is currently in the office.

Capacity limits and alerts

Keep people from registering or signing in past your office's max capacity to prevent overcrowding.

Analytics and reporting

Make data-informed decisions with insight into occupancy, screening results, and who's working in the office.

Workplace contact tracing

Identify who may have been exposed to a sick employee in the office based on your sign-in data.

Announcements

Get important information about the workplace, like policies and events, in front of employees via Envoy Mobile.
